BACKGROUND

According to a study in the Journal of Family Medicine and Primary Care, menstruation “has always been surrounded by taboos and myths that exclude women from many aspects of socio-cultural life. In India, the topic has been a taboo until date. Such taboos about menstruation present in many societies impact on girls’ and women’s emotional state, mentality and lifestyle and most importantly, health. The challenge, of addressing the socio-cultural taboos and beliefs in menstruation, is further compounded by the low girls’ knowledge levels and understandings of puberty, menstruation, and reproductive health. Thus, there is the need to follow a strategic approach in combating these issues.”

Challenges to women and girls in India include:

- 23% of girls drop out of school when they begin menstruating
- Several studies have determined that girls’ knowledge levels and understandings of puberty, menstruation, and reproductive health are very low in India
- Over 77% of menstruating girls and women in India use an old cloth, which is often reused.
- 88% of women in India sometimes resort to using ashes, newspapers, dried leaves and husk sand to aid absorption.
- Cultural and religious sentiments can lead to stigmas that can result in isolation and feelings of impurity

Proper Menstrual Hygiene Management is achievable in India, which can result in improved health and socio-economic possibilities for millions of women and girls. To enable this, a culture shift is needed, to extinguish harmful stigmas, while enabling the spread of crucial information and the provision of proper facilities.
Access to sanitary toilet facilities also remains a crucial factor in India. While much of the nation is now celebrating ODF status, maintaining that status is already providing difficult in some areas, which are sliding back due to lack of awareness, as well as issues concerning maintenance and operation.

The Opportunity

The State of Uttar Pradesh recently hosted the Kumbha Mela at the confluence of the Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati Rivers at Prayagraj. In 2013, an estimated 12 crore people attended the Maha Kumbha Mela. In early 2019, the Government of India estimates at 220 million people came to the same location, breaking all records as the largest gathering of humanity in history.

The holy Kumbha Mela provided spirituality, hope and solace for men, women and children from across India and around the world, some of whom leave all behind in order to partake in the holy atmosphere.

Understanding the Kumbha Mela presented a tremendous opportunity for compelling the masses for Menstrual Hygiene Management and the promotion of toilets, GIWA, in partnership with WSSCC, provided a 360 Degree Social Impact Approach, which later became widely-recognized for the leading role it played in inspiring, educating and mobilizing at this massive event.

Objectives

- To provide mass inspiration through faith, government and entertainment leaders on Behaviour Change and Leave No One Behind.

- To create advocacy around Menstrual Hygiene Managements for breaking the silence and stigmas

- To involve women to cover last miles and leave no one behind issues under Swachh Bharat Mission
• To promote the use and maintenance of toilets in order to maintain ODF status

For this campaign, GIWA harnessed the mobilizing and motivating power of faith leaders, political leaders, entertainment leaders and faith-inspired communications to encourage a social movement for a clean and healthy India as a call of faith.

Campaign Targets

This campaign was targeted towards all festival attendees, paying close geographical attention to the main focal-point of the Kumbha Mela, the Sangam. Our outreach proved a special attraction to semi-urban and rural masses, for whom behaviour change communications regarding the embracing of MHM and toilet usage is crucial.

Our Events and Outreach Focused on:

1. She is the Solution: The Summit of Grace (Page 7)
2. The Gandhian Resurgence Summit (Page 21)
3. The Provision of an MHM Lab (Page 35)
4. Educational Outreach at the Kumbha Mela’s first Toilet Café (Page 43)
5. And more

Our Activities Included

1. Participation by influential Faith Leaders
2. Participation by Key Political Leaders
3. Mass Outreach to Thousands
4. Mass Media Coverage to millions
5. Video Production
6. The breaking of stigmas through education and messaging at a major faith event by esteemed faith leaders, as well as educators and outreach workers
7. And more
360 Degree Initiatives for Social Impact

Change become manifest through a 360 degree approach to creating Social Impact for Social Change. These special initiatives, planned in accordance with our decades of experience in inspiring, educating and mobilizing the masses at Kumbha Melas and other mass events, encompassed the below themes:
She is the Solution: The Summit of Grace

“Don’t let anyone tell you your monthly periods are dirty because without menstruation there can be no creation.”

- HH Pujya Swami Ramdev, renowned faith leader,
at “She is the Solution: The Summit of Grace”

On 27-29 January, renowned women leaders from different religions, countries, organizations, and fields came together on the banks of the Prayagraj Sangam to discuss and then commit themselves towards playing active and collaborative roles in saving the children and communities of India from death, disease and stunting through improved Menstrual Hygiene Management and WASH through GIWA’s historic Summit of Grace. The historic Summit also placed a special focus on ending child marriage and ensuring all girls stay in school.

Why The Summit of Grace?

Countless women and girls in India are deeply affected by a lack of access to proper Menstrual Hygiene Management, as well as by the stigmas associated with their periods. In addition, issues surrounding access to sanitation continue to prove worrisome, with many people left behind and ODF statuses at risk in many areas. Moreover, the health, well-being and future prospects for millions of women and girls are also placed at risk by the lack of proper school education compounded by the threat of child marriage.

There are numerous adverse health effects associated with a lack of adequate MHM and sanitation in particular. Out of fear, for example, women and girls may choose to ignore their needs, which may increase the likelihood of painful infections, school dropout rates, chronic constipation and mental stress.

In addition, a lack of single-gender sanitation facilities in schools’ results in low levels of attendance among girls, perpetuating cycles of gender inequality and poverty. Girls who have reached puberty and female school staff who are menstruating need gender-specific sanitation facilities. Without the privacy afforded by these facilities, menstruating school girls and staff often do not feel comfortable using school facilities, resulting in absenteeism 10-20% of the time.
Held at the 2019 Kumbha Mela in Parmarth Niketan’s renowned encampment on the confluence of the Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati Rivers, the Summit of Grace provided a unique opportunity and platform to address these issues and empower women against the social taboos of the society.

The Objectives of the Summit of Grace Were:

1. To advocate around Menstrual Hygiene Management as a key driver in India for breaking taboos and silence around the issue, to share knowledge on how to manage menstruation hygienically and proper disposal, and to lobby for MHM-friendly sanitation facilities.

2. To inspire and enable a new wave of women leadership for a clean and healthy India where all have equal opportunities.

3. To provide inspirational round table discussions with key influencers

4. To develop roadmaps and follow-up activities that will enable the continuation of the momentum built on this Summit

5. To position both women and men as leaders in the effort

Opening Ceremonies: 27th January 2019

Opening Ceremonies were held on the banks of the Sangam as the sun descended over the Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati Rivers. The evening included a special Ganga Aarti and speeches by renowned faith and political leaders. The event, which was streamed live, included the participation of India’s Hon’ble Minister of State for HRD (Education Minister), as well as esteemed faith leaders from the Sikh, Jain and Hindu traditions. During the evening:

- Key topics concerning MHM, access to WASH and other key issues were discussed in speeches by key influencers.
- A group pledge was held for the upliftment of women and girls through WASH/MHM.
- Patriotic, live music was performed to set the scene.
- GIWA’s popular life-size puppet show to promote toilet use amidst the masses.
- The following day’s activities were outlined.
- A cultural programme was held to complete the evening.
Day Two: Stage Event and Leadership Roundtable

28th January 2019

Leadership Roundtable

Day Two of the Summit of Grace commenced with a high-profile Leadership Roundtable, which included the participation of foremost faith, political and international leaders to discuss crucial concepts and chart a course ahead. The roundtable included:

- Introduction to key topics by independent facilitators,
- Orientations by sector experts
- Open discussions by faith leaders about MHM, WASH, and childhood education
- Interactions during which planning concepts were shared for a roadmap ahead

Key roundtable suggestions included:

- Stigmas surrounding MHM and the menstrual cycle must be addressed and erased
- Equal opportunities to enable girls to stay in school must be promoted, including through the provision of pads/disposal facilities, toilets, MHM outreach and an end to child marriage
- Events like this should continue on a regional scale in order to move forward dialogues and facilitate in planning
- A joint campaign should be created with GIWA to provide unified messages and inspiration regionally

- Women faith leaders have an important role to play in the upliftment of women and girls. They should be similarly uplifted
Afternoon Summit of Leaders

After the completion of a successful roundtable, a mass stage event was held within the Parmarth Niketan Kumbha Mela Amphitheatre. The event featured the participation of esteemed leaders, including the Hon’ble Speaker of Lok Sabha, the Hon’ble State Minister of HRD, revered faith leaders, representatives of multinational agencies, community champions and sector leaders. The proceedings included:

- Motivational entertainment, featuring students from local schools and the Women’s Rock Band, a collective of women musicians from an impoverished region in Bihar who sang about social issues relevant to the summit
- Speeches by the esteemed Delegates on MHM, Sanitation, Girl’s Education and Ending Child Marriage
- Felicitating and awarding 15 Community Champions for MHM, sanitation, and ending child marriage/promoting education
- Screening of motivational films
- A water blessing ceremony with prayers for the end to social stigmas
- A mass pledge

The proceedings, which were widely covered by the media, urged for:

- The “normalization” of discussions on MHM and menstrual cycles, so that the topic is no longer stigmatized and “swept under the carpet”
- The stemming of school drop-out rates through MHM, toilets and an end to child marriage
• The recognition and upliftment of community leaders and women faith leaders, so that others can follow their example
• The importance of all faiths coming together to address issues that are threatening the health, dignity and livelihood prospects of women and girls
• Ensuring none are left behind in access to sanitation and hygiene
• The importance of maintaining ODF status
• The upliftment of Swachhagrahis, who are providing invaluable services in ensuring clean toilets and clean surroundings for all
• More festivals like the Kumbha Mela, which this year became a shining global example for its cleanliness and universal toilet access
Day Three: 29th January 2019: The Grand Rally

On the last day of the Summit, nearly 1,000 people gathered for the Grand Rally for Women and Girls. The Rally, which took place on the sands of the Sangam, brought together celebrated leaders of faith and international experts to combine voices and forces for the upliftment of women and girls through WASH, MHM and Education.

The audience was captivated by the unique vision of many of India’s foremost female faith leaders on stage to bring to light pressing issues and inspire great and lasting change. They were joined by foremost male faith leaders, such as Pujya Swami Ramdevji, who similarly raised their voices in support of less-discussed topics such as MHM, saying, “There can be no creation without the menstruation cycle.”

Messaging was pointed towards inspiring people across the Kumbh and around the nation to change age-old behaviours that result in stigmas associated with menstruation, as well as the disuse of toilets and inequalities that can lead to increased poverty and isolation.

The rally elicited enthusiastic participation from the audience, which later joined in a grand procession to the call of drums, horns and hundreds of flags carrying inspirational messaging.
OUTCOMES:

- The summit educated and helped focus on the WASH needs and issues of women and girls. It helped underscore the need for changing mindsets, breaking social taboos and cultural influences that inhibit women. It led to a concerted action to openly address sensitive topics of puberty, menstruation and the perils of open defecation that are linked to education for girls and women’s health.

- The Summit also led to garnering and leveraging the influential role of faith leaders in bringing about behaviour change, particularly regarding open defecation, leave no one behind and Menstrual Hygiene Management amongst their followers focusing on women’s undeniably key role in behaviour norms in any family and community and, focusing on changing behaviours of women leads to change in a community as a whole.

- The subject of menstruation and MHM became more approachable, leading to open discussions and motivational messaging by faith leaders
• The summit led to participants feeling inspired towards promoting improved WASH and opportunities for women and girls everywhere.

• Millions across India were inspired by the messages and participation of the esteemed leaders and community members.

Media Coverage

The Summit of Grace received wide-spread media coverage in the television and print media. Coverage included:

• Dainik Jagran, with a readership of 70+ million people
• IANS, which syndicates articles to hundreds of media providers, such as newspapers, across India and around the world
• The Times of India, with a readership of 13 million people
• The Hindustan Times, with a readership of 3.7 million people
• And more

It is predicted that the media reach for the Summit was thus over 100 million.

Kumbh Mela 2019: Hundreds march for women's empowerment

The day also featured a historic signature campaign for the Guinness Book of World Records to generate awareness about ending child marriage. The Guinness World Records attempt is for the most signatures on a flag for the message: Yes to education, no to child marriage.

Returned by IAHJ, New Delhi (Published on January 20, 2019 13:07:07)

Hundreds of women marched on Tuesday at the Sangam appealing for women’s empowerment, education, access to proper menstrual hygiene management and an end to child marriage.

The rally was termed as a historical moment as it's the first time that women, especially those from Varanasi, have come together to speak on issues affecting them, with the aim of sending a message that they are not just silent observers, but active participants in shaping their future.

The rally began at the Sangam and ended at the Kumbh Mela grounds. The participants carried a large flag with the message: “Yes to education, no to child marriage.”

The rally was a part of the Government of India’s campaign to end child marriage and promote education for girls. The rally was also a part of the Kumbh Mela celebrations, which are being held in Allahabad, Prayagraj, and Haridwar.

The rally was organized by the Shakti Foundation, a non-governmental organization (NGO) that works for the empowerment of women.

The rally was supported by various organizations, including the Government of India, the United Nations, and the Indian Red Cross Society.

He said every young girl should be educated enough for a profession of her choice so that she herself becomes an inspiration for others.
EVENT: GANDHIAN RESURGENCE SUMMIT:
THE SUMMIT OF GANDHIAN AND MINORITY LEADERS

“The Kumbh is the biggest congregation of humanity of the world and this provides for a great platform to spread the messages of Cleanliness.”

- HE The President of India, Shri Ramnath Kovind

- At the Gandhian Resurgence Summit

Background:

Narendra Modi stood at the ramparts of the Red Fort and made a clarion call to the country for a Swachh and Open Defecation Free Bharat by 2nd Oct 2019, the 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi. This milestone announcement set India on an incredible journey. At its inception, nearly 600 million people were not using toilets. Today, the sanitation level of India has shown significant changes, with nearly every state in the Nation declared Open Defecation Free.

The success of Swachh Bharat Abhiyan undoubtedly has a significant impact on the global achievement of SDG-2, i.e., achieving access to adequate and equitable sanitation and hygiene for all by the year 2030. The strides have been great, even miraculous, yet populations still remain left behind, while others are returning back to their old habits of open defecation. Other pressing issues such as manual scavenging, dwindling water, poor health and hygiene, and the stunted growth of children remain widely prevalent. For such reasons, the Global Interfaith WASH Alliance, in partnership with Harijan Sewak Sangh, WSSCC, and other partners, hosted the high-level Gandhian Resurgence Summit. The event, for the first time in history, brought together India’s foremost Gandhian, Minority, Tribal, Political, Faith and other leaders on a single platform at the enormous Kumbha Mela in Prayagraj.

The event Summit, held on 16-18 January, 2019, drew forth from the successes of GIWA’s and Harijan Sewak Sangh’s highly-successful Summit of Gandhian Leaders, held about a year previously, which included the participation of HE the President of India and the Hon’ble Vice President of India alongside thousands of Gandhian leaders and youth.

Since the prior Summit, Gandhian leadership has been growing, and momentum can be seen for the shaping of a resurgence of the great and powerful thought that we all can be the Change We Wish to See for a clean and healthy India. To build on the momentum, the historic Gandhian Resurgence Summit was held at the Kumbha Mela-- the world’ largest gathering of humanity—to capture the imagination of countless souls converging at the Sangam of the Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati Rivers. Here, the great quote of Mahatma Gandhiji rang in all ears: “If I have the belief that I can do it, I shall surely acquire the capacity.”

Why a Gandhian Resurgence?

Mahatma Gandhiji is known to have brought together and united tens of millions of people in the mass movement of Independence. His intense and heartfelt work for the upliftment of society resulted in a free nation and the opening of hearts and minds to the philosophy of people-led leadership towards conquering that which seemed unconquerable. Today, as our nation becomes overwhelmed with pollution, the loss of natural resources such as water, and threats to the sustainability of SBM achievements, the time emerges once again for people to come together, learn together and stay together to gain independence from such glaring problems. Results for this can come in part from inspiring a Gandhian Resurgence that can rejuvenate and rekindle the excitement in people for becoming the solution for a more sustainable tomorrow.

Objectives of the Summit

- To spark a resurgence of the Gandhian inspiration for a Swachh and Swasth Bharat (Clean and Healthy India)
- To motivate a transformation of community members into community change leaders
- To re-energize the base of Gandhian leaders for a clean and healthy India where none is left behind for WASH
- To train and enable participants to be the change they wish to See in the World
- To provide opportunities for group planning and exploration of possible activities, activations and follow-up plans

The agents of change leading the way:

The Gandhian Resurgence Summit emphasized the fact that people young and old need to come together and be the agents of change, through a three-pronged approach of

- Inspiration: eminent faith leaders, Gandhian leaders and minority leaders came together on the same platform to motivate people from the grand to the ground level, to awaken, enlighten and inspire the spirits of crores of people and to trigger them to be the agents of agents
- Education: discussions and targeted training breakout sessions inspired informed discourse and enable participants to be educated and empowered towards enacting effective impact on society while becoming potential leaders for a Swachh and sustainable India.
- Activation: The summit focused on charging people with waves of energy to carry forth the spirit of Mahatma Gandhiji, who is famously known to have said, Sanitation is More Important than Independence.

The event, which was broadcast on Satellite Television to viewers across the world brought to the forefront crucial points, including:

- Reminding the nation that Mahatma Gandhiji said, “Sanitation is more important than independence”
- The importance of reaching and maintaining ODF status
- Celebrating sanitation workers
- Leaving none behind
- The importance that all festivals, events and municipalities build on the example of the Prayagraj Kumbha Mela, which provided ample toilets and a swachh experience for everyone

During the event, women sanitation workers were called to the stage, where they were given saris by First Lady, Smt. Savita Kovind, in recognition of their tireless commitments for a clean and healthy India. All attendees were also collectively bequeathed with hats bearing the image of Mahatma Gandhiji and the important message, “Sanitation is More Important than Independence.”

The event ended with a mass pledge for a clean, green and sustainable world.

Part Two: Proceedings, Discussions and Interactions by Gandhian and Minority Leaders

The second half of the day saw the deliberations of Gandhian and Minority leaders from across the nation, as they discussed topics concerning sustainable development, including:

- Sustainable Sanitation
- Preservation of Water Resources
- The Sustainable Development Goals
- Educating and inspiring this and future generations for a sustainable world

The day concluded with an educational cultural programme
Day Three: 18th January 2019:

Proceedings, Discussions and Leadership Trainings

The third day of the Gandhian Resurgence Summit began with proactive Plenary Sessions, which included panel discussions and open discussions:

- Plenary Session One: Role of Youth & Constructive Work in Sanitation, Skill Development and Self Employment

- Plenary Session Two: Women’s Empowerment

The morning sessions were followed by sanitation leadership training for all participants, led by Knowledge Links Foundation in synergy with WSSCC, GIWA and UNICEF. The interactive training involved:

- Problems and solutions surrounding fully reaching and sustaining SBM goals
- Discussions as to how leadership and roadmaps can be created for a clean and sustainably ODF nation
- Skills towards reaching out to and inspiring others, so that a Gandhian Resurgence for a clean and sustainable nation may be realized

The training was well-received by all participants, who actively took part in discussions, and offered their insights and commitments towards working individually and collectively for swachh goals.

Summit Outcomes

- People across India and around the world were inspired by messages from the President, the Governors of two states, the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, faith leaders and Gandhian/minority leaders for a resurgence of Gandhian thought and action for a clean and healthy nation where none are left behind
- The Summit inspired, educated and activated Gandhian and Minority leaders to be the agents of change for the creation and maintenance of a clean and healthy society
- Minority Leaders and Swachhagrahis were upheld for their importance in society
- The leadership of youth and women was promoted
- Participants received new leadership skills towards promoting and sustaining SBM goals

President Of India Visits Gandhian Resurgence Summit At Kumbh Mela

By Saurabh Verma

India’s President Ram Nath Kovind left for Haridwar, where he visited Parmarth Niketan, Global Mahatma Global Vanamahotsav camp, where he inaugurated the Gandhian Resurgence Summit. The nation’s first summit was “Gandhi the New Gandhi for Youth,” and Gandhi for All,”

The summit is a celebration in honor of the 150th Birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, organized by Parmarth Niketan, Global Vanamahotsav, and the Harivansh Sevak Sangh. It’s thesecond Gandhian organization founded by Gandhi in 1912. Two other Mahatma organizations participated. “The uniqueness of these events at the Kumbh Mela 2019, after Maharshi Mahatma and after the first shahi snan, serves to highlight the timeless appeal of Gandhian values and the message for all the religious symbols of the pilgrims visiting the Kumbh, but also for all of India and all of the world, watching this event,” organizers said.

They believe that the mention of the Swadeshi and Swaraj programs, the two major movements in Gandhian thought, especially important at Gandhi who had emphasized the social imperatives of industrial and economic independence. Swami Chidanand Saraswat, president of Parmarth Niketan and co-founder of Global Vanamahotsav Alliance, in his address at the event said, “Gandhi said, ‘renunciation is more important than independence.’ Today is a historic day for us, because the first ever Swadharma Shakti Kumbh Samaroh, or the President after Independence, a president of India is coming to Kumbh Mela from the banks of the Sangam today to inaugurate the Sangam Mahasamadhi, it’s a moment of enums, of peace of coexistence, environmental protection, and spiritual revival. In fact, today, we have a vision of our future, when the President, half the Prime Minister and Chief Minister working on a river, a river, India, brotherhood, peaceful, and prosperous India together.”

President Kovind performed the final offering (nirjala abhishek) of the river goddesses, paying respects to the river goddesses, Mother Ganga, with the Ganga Putra, the son of the Ganges. He also performed the Ganga Aarti, a traditional Hindu prayer, with the Prime Minister of India, Narendra Modi, and the President of India, Ram Nath Kovind. The Menstrual Hygiene Management Tent at the Kumbha Mela

From the Grand Level of our Summits, the provision of an MHM Lab at the Kumbh took the topic to the Ground Level. The lab took the form of WSSCC’s attractive tent, which travelled with GIWA’s team and WASH on Wheels Truck to well-populated areas of the Kumbha Mela. The tent was also set up on the Sangam and on the road during busier days, in order to attract pilgrims as they traversed the Kumbha Mela area. In addition, tabling was provided at the front entrance of Parmarth Niketan’s encampment during highly-attended events, to capture the eyes of all who came and subtly promote MHM as a “new normal,” in order to open discourse and remove stigma. This was a historic first at a high-level spiritual event and at the Kumbha Mela.

The objectives were to break the silence around menstruation and inspire people to talk about menstruation in their homes and communities so that adolescent girls and women can observe safe practices and stigmas may be eliminated.

MHM Lab overview

The idea of MHM Lab is to provide a safe and private space where girls and women can freely ask questions, understand the changes that occur in boys and girls during adolescence and learn about the menstrual cycle. They were also introduced to different products that are available in the market so that women and girls can make an informed decision. They also learnt about hygiene practices, reuse and disposal of menstrual waste. In addition, men were invited to discuss and learn about MHM.

The MHM Educators Aimed to:

- Explain the biological process of menstruation.
- List facts to counter myths around menstruation.
- Explain the negative impact of social taboos on women’s and girl’s health, education and self-esteem.
- Describe safe practices that menstruating girls and women should adopt to manage menstruation, including safe disposal
- Provide participants with MHM bracelets, so that they could remember their experiences and new-found knowledge

WSSCC’s Three-Pronged Approach to MHM

WSSCC’s three-pronged approach to MHM viz. breaking the silence, safe management and safe disposal was used as the conceptual framework for this outreach at the Kumbha Mela.

Expectations

Participants were asked about their expectations regarding the MHM lab. They shared the following:

1. What is the objective of this tent?
2. How will it help them?
3. To know about the process of menstruation and how to manage menstrual hygiene
4. What are we supposed to do after they get this knowledge?
5. How do we initiate conversation on menstruation?
6. Even two women hesitate to discuss menstruation, how can men talk about it?
7. How can misconceptions and taboos be overcome

Personal Experience Sharing by Women

In the Lab, people were asked to share their first menstrual experience.

1. “I was getting ready to go to school when I was studying in class VIII and my sister noticed a spot on my dress and told me about it. I already knew about menstrual process through my sister and was not surprised. My sister now helped me to wash up, use pad and change clothes and attended the school like any other day” - Rashmi

2. “I was playing cricket with my friends. Someone hit the ball for a four and while retrieving the cricket ball, I noticed a lot of cloth pieces soaked in blood in the field as well as blood along with faeces. My first thought was that this was hospital waste but then my friend corrected me that this was used menstrual waste and explained the menstrual process” – Aditya

3. “In class VIII, while coming out of classroom, I noticed blood on a bench. My friends and I thought someone is injured and called the school peon. He saw the blood and explained that some girl must have started menstruating, as girls have bleeding every month. We all then went to the biology teacher who explained that this is normal biological process and girls start menstrual cycles at the age of 9-10 years when bleeding occurs for 3-5 days.” – Harish Chand

4. “I started having abdominal pain at the age of 11 years. I told my grandmother about it who asked me to rest. I went to lie on bed and noticed blood stain on the bed sheet which scared me. I again went to grandmother who told me that I was now grown up and all grown-up women have monthly bleeding. She gave me a cotton cloth for managing the menstrual blood.” – Santosh Devi

5. “I started my menstrual periods at the age of 14 and had prior knowledge about it from my mother and biology class. I used to pray that her first period should not start at school and thankfully, it started only when I was at home. I told my mother who taught me how to use menstrual cloth and its reuse.” – Anjali

Participation By Men

1. One of men who came said “As a man I had never thought that I will ever be able to talk about menstruation, but today my silence broke when I spoke to a group of 31 women without hesitation”.

2. Another male participant said “I went home and told my family about my experience, they were happy to know about MHM. I feel more bold and confident coming today”.

3. A male school teacher remarked “MHM can be made mainstream by communicating about it face to face and also by linking it other ongoing programmes”.

Taboos

People were asked to tell their social taboos or restrictions associated with menstruation in the family or region. A long list of taboos or restrictions emerged from this exercise. Some of these are:

- Do not light diyas
- Sports prohibited
- Do not touch pickles/pious things
- Do not put sindoor for 5 days to ensure welfare of husband
- Do not pray or participate in religious activity
• Do not enter kitchen
• Women have to sleep on separate bed in few places
• Bedding is washed after 5 days
• No bath during menstruation
• Hair wash after 3 days; washing not to be done on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday
• Fish, pickles intake banned
• Heavy weight lifting prohibited
• If unmarried girl applies makeup during menstruation, she will become transgender in next birth
• Box with new clothes is not to be opened
• Cycling, going up stairs is prohibited

Introduction of WSSCC Tools – Flipbook and Menstrual Wheel

The tools were introduced to participants, such as the WSSCC Flipbook and Menstrual Wheel, to teach about the physical and emotional changes in boys and girls during adolescence, menarche, semenarche and menstruation.

Disposal

The objective was to explain the variety of disposal options to the people. People were given a task to calculate the amount of menstrual waste generated in India every month by providing the date that 336 million women menstruate in India. Out of them, 121 million use disposable sanitary products. Assuming on an average 8 pads are used by women or girl every month the total waste generated came out to be nearly 1.02 billion pads monthly.

After this various options of sanitary pads disposal with their pros and cons were discussed:
- Open Dumping
- Deep burial
- Incinerators
- Landfills
- Burning

People have explained the benefits of Reducing, Reusing and Recycling the sanitary waste by switching to reusable absorbents to manage menstruation.
The Toilet Café at the Kumbha Mela

During the Kumbha Mela, a beautiful and historic Toilet Café was launched in Parmarth Niketan’s camp in association with WSSCC and other partners. The Toilet Café provided participants with knowledge on different toilet models and details on the importance of obtaining and sustaining ODF status over cups of hot tea. It became an instant attraction at the Kumbha Mela, providing a center point for the sharing of information and the kindling of inspiration.
